A Client Story of Gratitude

Ms. Martinez is a 36 year old single woman living and working in Dallas. Her employer offers health insurance but after taxes, housing, food and transportation to and from work there isn't much room for health insurance premiums. She relies on a local community clinic for her medical needs as they arise. One day Ms. Martinez felt a lump in her breast and immediately scheduled an appointment with the clinic for evaluation. Upon evaluation the doctor referred her to the Bridge Breast Network (BBN) for assistance. The BBN Navigator worked with Ms. Martinez to get her application completed and a referral to a BBN provider for a diagnostic mammogram and subsequent biopsy. The navigator assured Ms. Martinez each step of the way that Bridge Breast Network would be there to take care of her. Ms. Martinez was relieved to learn her biopsy results were benign and said, "I am grateful to the Bridge Breast Network for their assistance." Women who never give birth have a slightly higher risk of breast cancer compared to women who have had more than one birth. For more information on breast cancer risk factors and how to lower your risk visit Susan G.
